SOLDIERS PILED UP RUNS

Awful Drubbing Administered by the Infantry Team to the Printers.

What the Game Lacked in Excitement It Made Up in Fun-Umpire O'Nell Stopped a Ball.

Pitcher Sweitzer, of the Government Printing Office aggregation may have twirled the aphere very effectively in rne past, but the pounding he received from the Infantry team in yesterday's Departmental League game be will very nkely remember for some time. Thirty-two hits and twenty-five runs in eight innings seems Impossible, nevertheless that was just exactly what Manager House's colts did to the German lad and Mischler tegether.

Sweitzer was the mark and the latter ctly a substitute, who took his place when the infantry men had successfully connected with his "special" delivery over a score of times.

The game as a whole was not so bad, for instead of interest and excitement, amusement and pleaty of it prevalled through-out the contest. As one sided as it was, the fielding was unusually good on the part of both teams, and had the Printers been able to hit "Trilby" Gieason's puzzles little parder and supplied their own box with a micher, the exhibition would undoubtedly have been a good one.

and his merry pranks kept the crowd in Glesson's arm showed much improvement stick work was a mystery, for he lead the team by emissing our six singles out of six times up. "Doe" Kleinschmidt played couple of difficult balls on a long run. The whole pluc were in excellent condiion, and their atl-around work could hardly have been improved upon.

and if they had buildled the stick as well as they did the bail the result would perhaps not have been so disastrous. In the seventh luning Havens made a wild throw in the direction of second base, which struck Unipere O'Neiti on the head, and caused him intense pain for the time being. John Malarkey, of the Washington League team, relieved him, and finished his work for the rest of the range. The support

New York, Aug. 7.-The Senators met with defeat again here this afternoon through their inability to hit the ball, Juck Georg, who has recently been cov- Since Dad Clarke was touched up in ering second hase for the Cape May nine. Evely fushion in Washington last week surprised his friends by returning and he has been harboring thoughts of revenge boiling down his old stand behind the bat and he got it this afternoon. He "mixed for the Infantry. Jack was at his best, them up" in such a bewildering fashion on the opposing batsmen that five scattering hits were all they had to show hwen the returns were all in.

The Senators went to bat first but did not get within builing distance of first base. Selbach, Joyce and Hassamer going out in order. Fuller began hostilities for New York by touching up Anderson for a smoking grounder, which Scheibeck made a gallant effort to stop, but failed.

CAUGHT DOYLE NAPPING. Tiernan followed with a two-bagger, but quick fielding held Fuller at third. Van Haltren hitt to Hassamer, who threw to Anderson, retiring the batter, but Fuller tallied on the play.

Pavis singled to left, scoring Tiernan. Selbach's quick return of the ball was the means of mailing Davis in an attempt to stretch his hit into a double. Doyle hit safely over second and came in on Burns' dashing three-bagger to the ropes. Hassamer vanked in Stafford's foul fly and the inning was over. The second inning was quickly over. Joyce opened the third with a two-base drive into Burns' domain, but he overran second and was touched out by Fuller. Hassamer and

McGuire expired at first. Successive singles by Tiernan, Van Hai-tren and Davis put a New Yorker across the plate in the third. Then Doyle hit to Crooks, who with the assistance of Schelbeck and Hassamer, engineered a fine double play. Van Haltren, however, scored while the play was in progress. It looked as if the home team would score again in the fifth, but another well-executed double play cut them short.

BOYD WAS FAST. Stafford got first on balls and purioined second, Farrell struck out and Clarke raised a long fly to Boyd. The latter made a lightning throw to Schelbeck, retiring Stafford, who was not able to get back in time After Scheibeck had been put out at first in the sixth inning Auderson reached first on Stafford's fumble. Joyce hammered out his second two-bagger, but balls had been called on him. Hits by Fuller, Van Haltren and Berns and a bare on balls to Doyle gave the New Yorkers two runs in th chifth.

Stafford began the sixth with a triple o center. Abbey fielded the ball into to center. Abbry fielded the ball into Scheibeck, who threw to Joyce to catch Stafford at third. The throw was a delicious one, and inited over Joyce's head, Stafford scoring. Farreil but safely and to did Clarke. Tieroan sent the former home with a single.

DOYLE SCORED A MUFF. The Senators three runs in the seventh vere made in this wise: McGuire larruped the horsehide for a base. Boyd hit to Poyle, who threw to second to head McGuire off. The throw was wide and both Senators were safe. Abbey hit a sharp one to Boyle, The ball went through Jack's legs and Mc-Guire and Boyd romped home. Crooks smashed the leather down the left foul line for a couple of cushions, sending Abbey across the plate. Scheibeck followed with a single, but the next three batters were easy outs. The remaining fanings were featureless except for a couple of fine plays by the visitors. Crooks made a phenomenal one-hand running catch of a fly from Farrell's bat in the eighth, and in the same inning Abbey gathered in a fly Tiernan hit which Eleven Bullets Killed Him.

Sylvania, Ga., Aug. 7.-News of a sensational battle between officers and a desperate criminal has reached here. James Burns about two years ago killed Frank He escaped, and for two years has been in hiding. Yesterday he was discovered in a swamp near here, and a gang of deputy sheriffs started out to capture him. In the battle which took place burns received eleven bullets in his body and died soon after.

MARRED BY THE STARTER

Flynn Dropped the Flag Upon Widely Separated Fields.

LONG SHOTS WERE SCARCE

As a Consequence, the Talent Departed in a Happier Frame of Mind Than They Have Possessed for Some Time-Manola's Commanding Style. First Race Looked Suspicious.

The racing at St. Asaph yesterday while fairly good in some respects was marred by the very poor work that Starter Flynn put up with the flag.

Figur has not been in as good shape this car as he was last and he has had more off days than the public like to see. On the other hand he has done some starting that has been simply perfect.

Yesterday, however, he was bad and not even his most ardent friends could have possibly made any excuse for the bung-Bugmanner in which he dispatched his fields. In one or two cases he let one horse off anywhere from two to five lengths in front of the field. The delays were not as long and tedious as they have been, but while there is lots of kicking over the length of time that some of the fields are kept at the post the public would rather wait and have them sent away so they will not be hopelessly beaten before they have gone ten yards.

For the first time in days there were not three or four long shots to land the money and the talent went home in a somewhat happier frame of mind than they have of

BEYOND THEIR POCKETS. They did not score much of a victory, lowever, as only three favorites won, and one of them was a four to one chance and was therefore beyond the pocket of the average patter. The attendance was very good for an off day, and the betting was much brisker thau it has been during the past two weeks. The Western mare, Manola, which is entered under the name of the Illinois stables, scored her fourth consecutive victory and did it in the commanding hishion that has marked her other victories. True, she got at least five lengths the start, but she did not need it, as Murphy and a thousand different kinds of wraps on her when he passed under the wire Out of her last seven starts she has wer six of them and can come very near giving the fastest sprinters at the outlaw tracks

B Tace. Paymaster was the hottest kind of a good thing in the opening event. He opened at foars, and was so heavily played that even money was the best obtainable at the close. Chair W. bent the flag, but was evidently not "meant," and rounding the far turn fell back, and the favorite coming on won, after a little shaking up, at the end from Kenneth, who was a neck in frent of Tanglefoot. The betting in the first looked so suspictons that many were scared off. one time as good as 3 to 5 could be had against Wistful to show. When the race came off she did not appear any too anxious, as Murphy ran her all over the track and went very wide on the turn Watson, the second choice, second, and Wistful, the third choice, third. WAS A GOOD THING. Tenacious opened the choice in the third event, but the handicappers nearly are the bookies up in their efforts to get down on Lotion. He was backed from his opening price of sixes down to fours.

the far turn and drawing away in the stretch won handily from Hippona, with Sir Rae third. The fourth race went to Renaissance, who led from flag fall to finish and easily defeated the 10 to 1 chance, Redowac, who n turn, beat Ninety-seven by three lengths for the second money. From the start there was nothing in the third race but Manola. She was in front all the way and won under the hardest kind of a pull from Marie Lovell, Lilipute, a 60 to 1 chance, was third.

The closing event was taken in tow by Leporello, who was a strongly played cond choice. The favorite, Duke of Gloucester, was second two lengths before Pomona Belle.

HONORS WERE EASY.

Married and Single Men Played a Remarkable Game of Ball. married men and the single men of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing en-three or four hundred friends at the Y. M. C. A. athletic grounds yesterday after noon by their amusing but well-meant efforts to master the fine points of the great national game.

The members of both teams and the spectators were out for fun and they got it to a surfeit. At no time during the game was a runner safe either at first ase or at home plate nutil the umpire were fully convinced that the acore or the out would not materially after the result of the game. A ball or strike would be called before the ball reached the plate and often before it left the pitcher's hand. However, there was no kicking even when men were called out at the home when here were cancer out at the nome plateafter they had been scored ten minutes, as it was necessary to even up the game. Unfortunately at the end of the fifth luming it began to rain and the game and the fut stopped. The umpires, however, had filled this position most satisfactorily
